Overview

The Laikipia plateau in Kenya's northern highlands contains some of the most exclusive and ecologically significant private conservancies on the continent — a mosaic of ranches, wildlife sanctuaries, and indigenous community partnerships protecting over 8,000 square kilometres of wilderness. This 12-day circuit moves through six of these estates in sequence, each one offering something entirely different: from Segera's contemporary art and conservation research to Borana's horseback safaris, Suyian's legendary remoteness, and Loisaba's vast open skies. This is Kenya for those who have seen the national parks and want something more.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Six of the most exclusive private conservancy estates in northern Kenya — each in a single seamless circuit
- Borana Lodge — horseback safaris alongside rhino, elephant and Grevy's zebra on the open plateau
- Lewa Wilderness — UNESCO World Heritage Site protecting Kenya's highest density of black rhino
- Camel trekking, night drives, walking safaris, and conservation briefings throughout
